ENVIRONMENTAL MANAGEMENT SYSTEM

Lloyd Morris Electrical Limited are an electrical engineering company with operations which include the manufacture of motor control centres, control panels and switchgear, the main functions being design, electrical manufacture, electrical installation and office-based work.

We accept that our activities will in some way affect the environment. We accept that we contribute to cumulative actions that cause measurable effects. With this in mind we are committed to minimise the adverse contribution that our activities cause by adopting the following.

- ❖ Care for the environment in all its forms and recognise that concern for the environment should be an integral fundamental part of our business.
- ❖ Establish environment performance standards that as a minimum fully comply with all relevant legal regulations and minimise impact at our workplaces.
- ❖ Provide the necessary training and support to employees to ensure that they are able to fulfil the requirements of the environmental management system.
- ❖ Before committing to capital expenditure or before entering into any new business venture, the impact on the environment will be fully considered.
- ❖ Progressively improve levels of environmental performance of all significant aspects. Specifically, in the reduction of our Carbon Footprint by way of reduction of waste, the minimisation of energy and water consumption and the usage of raw materials.
- ❖ Maintain an environmental management system that complies with ISO 14001: 2015
- ❖ Demonstrate our continuing commitment to the environment and the prevention of pollution by conducting an annual review of our environmental system and generating targets and objectives for continuous improvement.

Statement of objective framework:

The Safety, Health, Environment and Quality (SHEQ) objectives are considered, discussed and measured through the SHEQ meetings process, and are included in the SHEQ annual report for managerial consideration. They are reviewed annually to ensure new issues or requirements are addressed and actioned.

The policies, and with them the objectives are communicated internally and externally to personnel, customers and interested parties through the issuing of the employee handbook, completion of supplier questionnaires, and through the displaying of policies on noticeboards and website.
